OFFICIAL RECORD

From pig to man

How a revolution against masters produced new ones, one reasonable step at a time.

EXHIBIT A · THE ALLEGORY KEY

FARM → HISTORY

ON THE FARM		IN RUSSIA, 1917-1945
Mr Jones	→	Tsar Nicholas II
Old Major	→	Marx and Lenin
Napoleon	→	Stalin
Snowball	→	Trotsky
Squealer	→	State propaganda
The dogs	→	The secret police
Boxer	→	The working class
The sheep	→	Masses repeating slogans
Moses the raven	→	The Church
The windmill	→	The Five-Year Plans

EXHIBIT B · THE TIMELINE

CH. I → X

CH. I
Old Major dreams of a farm without humans.

CH. II
The animals drive out Jones; the Seven Commandments go up. The milk disappears.

CH. IV
The Battle of the Cowshed: Snowball is a hero.

CH. V
Napoleon’s dogs chase Snowball off the farm. Meetings end.

CH. VI
“Is it written down anywhere?” The pigs move into the farmhouse beds.

CH. VII
Forced confessions and executions.

CH. IX
Boxer is sold to the knacker.

CH. X
The pigs walk on two legs and dine with humans.

EXHIBIT C · SIX READINGS, ONE WARNING

OUR GROUP

SAYANJEET · THE RECORD

Whoever controls the written record controls the past.

SAUNAK · THE PATTERN

Revolutions betray themselves: the heroes become the next tyrants.

RISHABH · THE WORDS

Propaganda works because language can be rewritten.

YASH · ACCOUNTABILITY

A society cannot stay equal when its leaders are not held accountable.

VAIBHAV · THE EXCEPTIONS

Equality dies by small exceptions: a little milk, a few apples, a bed.

RAKTIM · THE LOYAL

The most loyal are the first to be sacrificed.

PIG MAN PIG?

“The creatures outside looked from pig to man, and from man to pig, and from pig to man again; but already it was impossible to say which was which.”

CHAPTER X · THE FINAL LINE

Our warning: power is rarely seized in a day. It accumulates, while the record is rewritten.

GROUP

SAYANJEET · SAUNAK · RISHABH · YASH · VAIBHAV · RAKTIM

SOURCES

George Orwell, Animal Farm: A Fairy Story. London: Secker & Warburg, 1945. Quotations from the novel.
Historical parallels: the novel’s allegory of the Russian Revolution and Stalin’s USSR.
Readings: our group.